UK Government advice

School advice and help for parents

GET EXCITED
we are
OPENING
SOON!

We are so excited following the government announcement that schools are re-opening on 8th March. We will send full details of how this will work and any arrangements for the start and end of the school day very soon!

Have a look below at the World Book Day website - we have a fun packed day for children in school and at home! Details will be posted on Dojo and sent home!

Click the picture below to see the lovely book with beautiful illustrations that we will be using to support children in their transition back to school life. We understand there are lots of children who will be feeling very anxious about coming back to school. I want to reassure children that all staff are so looking forward to seeing them and, although they will feel nervous, there will be smiles and warm greetings waiting for them!

Remember we are here to help and support all children so if you are worried and want to talk to someone, please use one of the email addresses below to access support for your child or family.

Have a lovely weekend, Claire Jones, Headteacher

Alfie's Corner

Love from Alfie

So I know you are going to be jealous of me having a lockdown haircut but my Mum said I needed one desperately! I think she's gone a bit wild to be honest and I am not sure my ears are really even but I have to trust her... she feeds me! I look smart now ready for coming back to school!

This week Year 2 have been working hard to review all of our learning on our text 'The Disgusting Sandwich'. We have used our learning to plan and write our very own exciting version of the story. We have focused writing the beginning and middle this week, before moving on to writing the end of our story.

This week Year 3 have been reading about the fabulous George and his famous marvellous medicine. In preparation for our writing, we decided to create our own concoctions. We added sprinkles of earwax, splashes of paint and even a few dashes of rat poison which when mixed with puddle water made our mixtures explode!

This week, Year 5 have been studying Rainforests and during their Teams meet, drew sloths, ready to use in their information posters (currently being worked on in English lessons). The children have worked so hard to be observant and resilient and we are very much looking forward to seeing their published posters, complete with rainforest art work!
